History

The site in 1960

Shower block 2001

Twilite Leisure Park is situated beside the Oxford Canal three miles south of Banbury. Following the opening of the canal in the late 18th century the site was a thriving pipe and brickworks.

The site was used for farming from around 1940 by the present owner's late father, who also ran the Red Lion public house until it closed in 1954.

The current owner returned to live at Twyford Wharf in 2000 and commenced renovating the site.

Dogs are welcome but please keep on a lead at all times, and clear up any mess. Please remember the whole site is our garden and treat it as you would your own.

No vehicles or caravans on the grass please.

Twilite Leisure Park started in 2004 and now has 21 hard-standing pitches for caravans and about half an acre of grass for tents and recreation.

The landscaped garden area is on three levels and provides short walks around the site, with views over the valley to King's Sutton.

Twilite Moorings opened in January 2002 and has a capacity of 4/5 boats. In practice all berths are normally occupied by long-term residential boats.

The nearest bus stop is about 15 minutes walk away. The S4 runs every day between Oxford and Banbury. Timetables available at Reception.
